FEEDBACK REPORT

Under IQAC, the Feedback Analysis Committee creates and gathers input from its stakeholders in order to track and assess its performance quality regarding curriculum and curriculum-related matters. Parents, alumni, staff, interns, and students all filled out the feedback forms. Depending on the stakeholder, the Feedback goals follow various content.

- For students, it covers curriculum and outcome-based learning along with educational quality, the advantages of mentorship, accessibility to infrastructure, future employment opportunities, and encouragement of extracurricular activities.
- For staff, the feedback addressed the teaching and learning environment in terms of professional development and growth in teaching, as well as the administrative support system and availability of innovative teaching methods.
- For Alumni, the feedback addresses about their opinions about how well the course material and learning environment met their needs within the framework of contemporary professional standards and curriculum design within the framework of the advancement of self-directed learning and problem-solving techniques. In addition to offering chances for upcoming jobs.

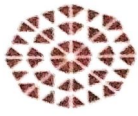

FEEDBACK ANALYSIS

Sorting and report writing were done with the data that the IQAC had gathered. Every year, the analysis is conducted, and concerns raised by all parties involved are given particular attention.
